Project Overview

Farrow Walsh Consulting were established in 2009 and are a well-respected, design led, structural and civil engineering agency. Their existing Leicester head office was restricting their growth and they needed a larger office space but also wanted to move somewhere with a 'difference'.

They eventually found the perfect space on the top floor of a historical industrial unit in the centre of Leicester and aci were invited to tender for the space planning and fit-out works.

After a few design tweaks the perfect plan was selected and aci were given the nod to get to work! The works involved a large amount of electrical works, all done in surface mounted basket and galv pipe work, glass partitioning, flooring with a feature design and cushion backing and furniture.

Customer Comment

"ACI were great to work with and they were very patient with us as the legal work took 6 months longer than we anticipated.

When we did finally get the keys they were able to start almost immediately, in order to meet our timelines.

They worked with our brief and developed a plan to give us an amazing space that our staff and visitors love!"
